Academic Year 2023-2024

University of
La Verne

College of Arts and Sciences

Join the University of La Verne's vibrant community of creative artists and performers!

The University of La Verne will offer $31,000 scholarships to 12 students in seven featured performance categories for the 2023-2024 academic year.

These competitive Performance Scholarships are renewable annually for up to four years of undergraduate study as long as the student maintains academic standards (a 3.0 cumulative GPA) and continues to major in the performance area.

To be considered for Fall 2023, applicants must apply to the University of La Verne and complete a Performance Scholarship application. The Performance Scholarship application, recommendation form, and area-specific requirements must be submitted by midnight February 1, 2023. Application documents and additional information is available at univ.lv/performance.

Applicants may not be enrolled in any University of La Verne course prior to the Fall 2023 semester. Scholarship applicants must be admitted to the University of La Verne prior to Performance Scholarship Day on February 24, 2023. On Performance Scholarship Day, applicants will present their portfolios or perform an audition and/or interview with faculty and staff in their performance area. Attendance at Performance Scholarship Day is required and is by invitation only.*

Auditions and/or interviews for out-of-area and international applicants who cannot attend Performance Scholarship Day will be conducted remotely.*

Performance Scholarships are available in seven categories:

- Studio Art
- Digital Media
(Film and Television Production)
- Journalism
(Reporting and/or Producing for Television, Radio, Multimedia, or Podcasting)
- Music
- Photography
- Rhetoric and Communication Studies
(Debate)
- Theatre
(Performance and Technical Theatre)
